The Echo

1937

Published by

THE SENIOR CLASS

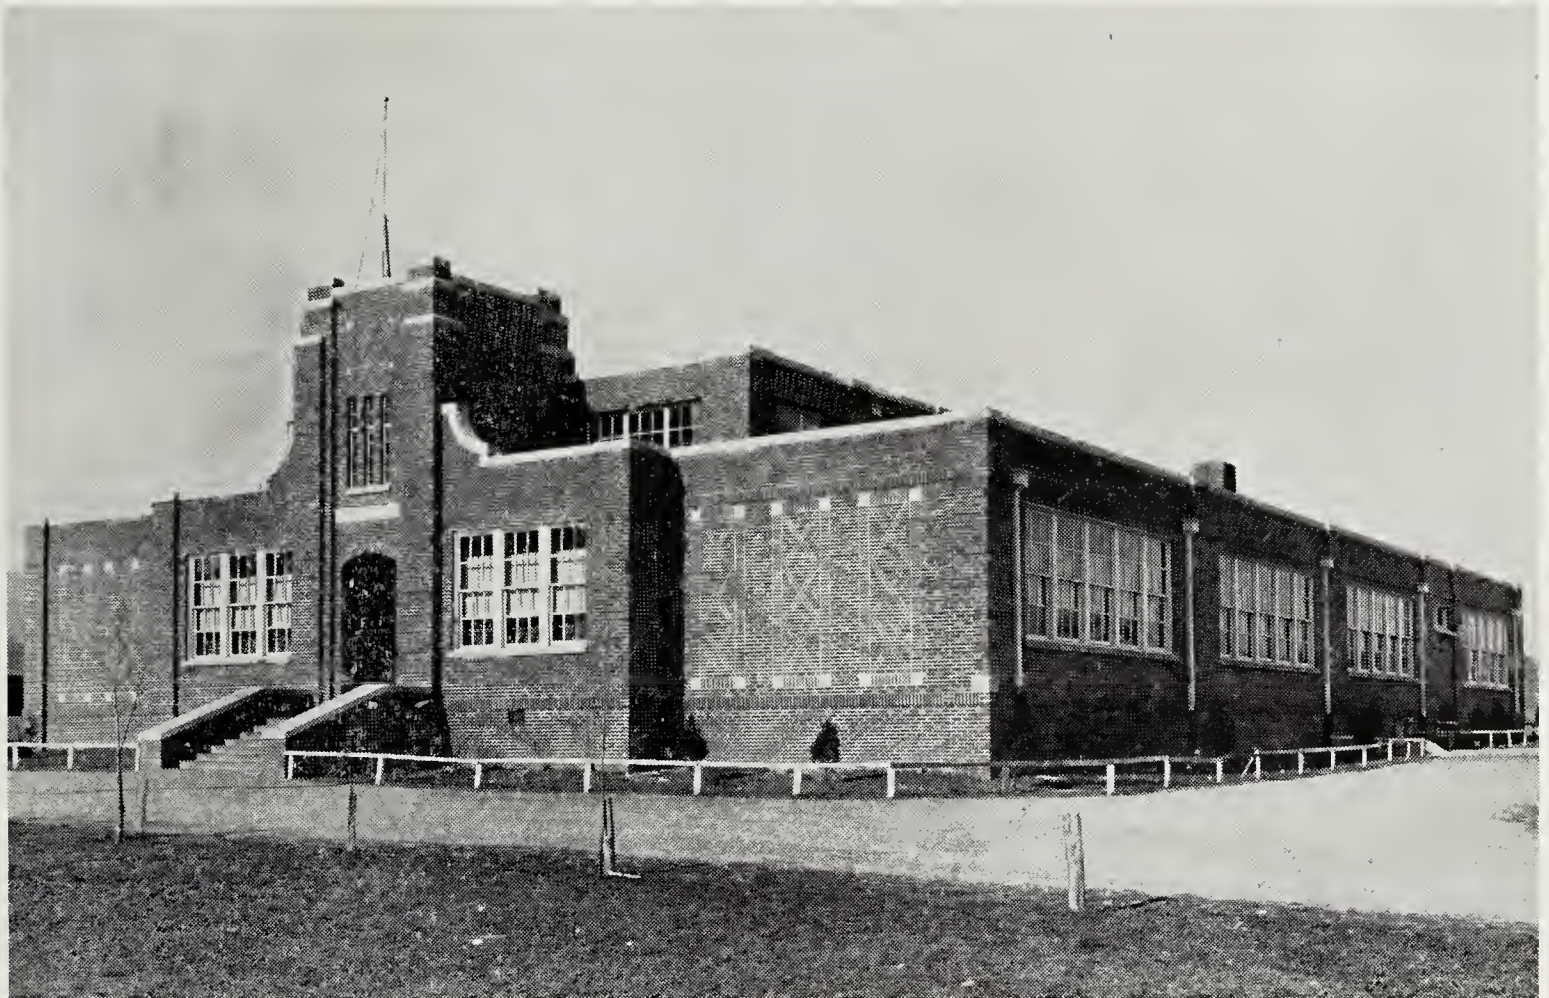

of

MONTVALE HIGH SCHOOL

MONTVALE, VIRGINIA

FOREWORD

THE 1937 issue of the Echo is built upon the theme of Peter Pan and the spirit of Inquisitiveness which he represents. To us, Tinker Bell, the light that guided Peter Pan, stands for knowledge, the light that guides us. To us, too, the Indians, who befriended Peter, symbolize the classmates and teachers who help us; and lastly, Captain Hook, Peter's worst enemy, is chosen to represent our own arch foe, ignorance.

Montvale High School

Our Faculty

We have not always fully appreciated them,
We have doubted them, and even,
to our shame,
have sometimes criticized them,
but here we wish to express our gratitude for the help they have given us
in making our dream come true.

SENIORS

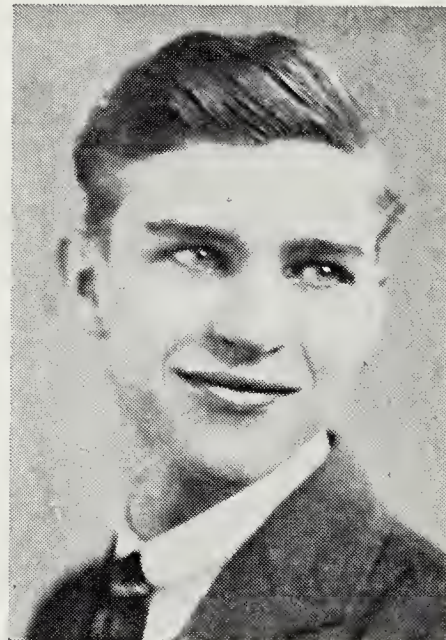

Never Never Land is behind us. We have come to know our friends, Knowledge and Progress, and we have crushed our enemies, Ignorance and Superstition. We have now caught the gleam of that light toward which our inquisitiveness has driven us these four years. To Peter Pan that gleam was the light shed by Tinker Bell. To us that gleam has been the light of Knowledge.

JUNIORS

The Juniors are nearing the goal! We have worked together to overcome the difficulties which we have come upon. In like manner did Peter Pan overcome the Pirates and Captain Hook. Following the impulse of curiosity, the same questing spirit that impelled Peter Pan, we are nearing that bright light that has been before us for two years.

SOPHOMORE

Peter Pan, after his first year in Never Never Land, had become acquainted with Captain Hook, his enemy, and with the Indians, his friends. So we, also, after the first year of investigation and exploration, have become acquainted with our enemy, Ignorance, and with our friend, Knowledge. We, however, not being content, are still investigating and exploring, following the urge of inquisitiveness.

FRESHMEN

Peter Pan, curious and inquisitive and always desirous of knowing what was ahead of him, explored the room where Wendy lay sleeping as if it were some newly discovered land. Likewise we, the Freshmen, as curious and as investigative as Peter, are exploring a newly discovered land, our first year of high school.

Activities

Life, to Peter Pan, was one quick move after another. Never for an instant was he idle. If he wasn't on the trail of the enemy, or displaying his friendship for the Indians in numerous acts of kindness, he was scurrying around his home among the tree roots, getting the children ready for bed or helping Wendy. We, too, have not been idle in our high school life. We, too, have spent our energies and time in many different activities.

Senior Play

"Aunt Samantha Rules the Roost"

The Senior Class presented this play in the Montvale High School auditorium, December 19, 1936. Aunt Samantha Simpkins, a man-hating, eccentric old maid, who owns a chicken farm, frightens all the suitors away from her nieces, Serena and Sophia who live with her. Serena is becoming just like her aunt, but Sophia rebels and starts something. She writes love messages on some eggs being shipped and signs them "Miss Simpkins." Meanwhile, Polly, the maid, buys some love powder from a fortune teller to whom she confided that Buddy Baskins, the grocery boy, does not return her affections. She puts the powder in lemonade which she intends to offer Buddy, But Samantha and Lucien Littlefield, a widower whom Samantha has always bitterly detested, drink the lemonade first. Then the hilarity starts for the powder really works. Samantha is a changed woman. Serena, too, imbibes and is transformed. Samantha's two man-hating friends partake of the lemonade and try to take Lucien away from Samantha. In the midst of all this, Lawrence Lovewell, who has received an egg bearing a love message, arrives to claim Samantha as his soul mate. In the end Samantha relents and the curtain falls on a clear horizon.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Educational facilities at the Montvale consolidated school reflect an atmosphere of the modern age.

One of the most important projects now in use is the communication system. Each room is equipped with a loud speaker which is connected with the amplifying unit in the office of the principal. This system makes devotional programs possible as well as announcements from the principal's office. The auditorium of the main building is also equipped with loud speakers.

Another important project is a completely equipped Home Economics Department which was completed last fall. On one side of the building is a modern apartment home, while the other portion of the building houses the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Other projects of the school are:

An experimental home economics course in operation in the primary grades, a growing athletic program, a "portable store," and hot lunches prepared by the senior home economics department, and served under supervision in the classrooms at a nominal cost to the students.

The school has a library which is operated by student librarians, consisting of twenty-two hundred books.

A radio in the principal's office can be used to bring educational programs, new broadcasts, special programs of interest to youth, and music to the pupils.

All these things have helped the school a great deal. May Montvale show even greater progress in the years to come!

CLASS WILL

We, the 1937 class of Montvale High School, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament.

To the Junior class we leave our senior privileges and hope that they will enjoy them as we have.

To the Sophomore class we leave some of our dignity in hopes that they will learn the meaning of the word quiet.

To the Freshman class we leave the privilege of tormenting the on-coming Seniors as much as they please.

Landon Bowyer leaves his ability of experimentation to Talmadge Motley.

Eugene Campbell leaves to Kenneth Waldron his ability to get along with the girls.

Marjorie Cofer leaves to Lorraine Lancaster the soul right of winning any of next year's senior boys.

Hazel Dooley desires to leave her cute ways to Vivian StClair.

Mary Virginia Davidson leaves her willingness to help others to Arlene Grant.

Lucille Dooley leaves her privilege of being captain of the basket ball team to Alice Wilson.

Verna Donald leaves to Stoke Caldwell her ability to draw.

Edith Edwards leaves her privilege of being salutatorian to Glenn Knighton.

Doyle Franklin leaves his privilege of getting by with bright remarks to Veva Secrest.

Annie Frazer leaves the ability to play basketball to Elizabeth Whitten.

Mary Clay Gardner leaves her good disposition to Constance Conrad.

Lura Giles leaves her position in the office to Lewis Hatcher, provided it is all right with Mr. McKee.

Virginia Graham leaves her dignified ways to the Foster family.

Merle Hackworth leaves his humorous disposition to Winfrey Carter.

Miriam Hite leaves her habit of reading to Margaret McClure.

Gladys Hawkins leaves her ability to fix her hair to Margaret Dooley.

Zelma Luck wishes to leave her calm ways to Louise Biggs.

Essie McFall leaves her tallness to Harry Sublett.

Jake McGuire leaves his privilege of eating suckers in school to Junior Huff.

Frances McManaway leaves her slow motion to Edith Waldron.

Katie Metz leaves her ability to write neat papers to Mutt Williams.

Virginia McGhee leaves her place as pianist for M. H. S. to Dorothy Cofer.

James Moore leaves to Eugene Spencer his privilege of being late every morning.

Ethel Obenchain leaves her ability to write English papers to Paul Luck.

Bill Otey leaves some of his flirtatious ways to Frank Miller. Bill says he wants to keep some.

Dick Ruff leaves the privilege of sleeping in school to Billy Crouch.

To Stoke Caldwell we leave the knowledge of Wayne Secrest and hope that he will make better grades.

Martha Anne Saunders leaves to Rosie Tate her privilege of being Valedictorian.

Ernestine Whitten leaves her ability in Latin to Frances Watson.

Duly signed and sealed by the Senior Class, 1937.

To High School Graduates

Whatever you plan to do after graduation—whether you plan for college or business—your mental development must continue.

The National Business College is a distinctive, private school of professional grade. Day and evening courses prepare high school graduates for immediate earnings. Many graduates who have acquired experience are now presidents, vice-presidents, cashiers, secretaries, treasurers and controllers of large corporations—others are in successful accountancy practice.

The selection of a commercial school for your business training is of vital importance to you. Write for beautifully illustrated catalog.
